BUMPS IN THE ROAD

These five women make up the Championship Local Operations, who were praised by Ernesto d'Orsi as essential to the success of the World Championships. They are Andrea Junqueira, Daisy Kenedi, Germana D'Orsi, Fernanda Joanitti and Cláudia Cavalcanti.

With one day's play left, the story of the week-long round robin qualifying might be boiled down to a combination of A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum and the "best-laid schemes of mice and men."

It's fair to say most of the teams in the Bermuda Bowl, Venice Cup and D'Orsi Seniors Bowl at the very least harboured dreams of getting to the knockout stages of their respective competitions, and most of the favored teams are in position to achieve their goals.

Some have fallen short, however, and the most glaring example is USA1 in the Bermuda Bowl. The winners of the American team trials are languishing in 17th place with only three matches to play and have no chance to make the KO phase.

In the Venice Cup, Sweden, expected to contend for the title, ended the sixth day of qualifying on the outside looking in – but they at least still have a chance.

Seniors Bowl competitors surprisingly not in the top eight with one day left to play are Japan, who won in Beijing; Turkey, who won the Senior teams in the European Championships last year, and Canada, who sent another strong team to Sao Paulo.

The race to the finish line should be exciting.

Double-dummy dilemma

I know my limitations. When P-O tells me he cannot solve a double-dummy problem I should not even bother to look at it but should go straight to Deep Finesse; however I foolishly wasted an hour before surrendering. And the play is indeed stimulating; do you want to play or defend four spades?

Let's do the simple stuff first; on a heart lead you could arrange to draw trumps via the finesse and then cross to the diamond king to play a club up. So the defence take their club ruff at the first two tricks. What now?

If you do not play a trump, declarer arranges a diamond ruff in dummy with the low trump (we are playing double-dummy!) so South must shift to a trump at trick three won by East in hand. Now declarer cannot duck a diamond to North or a club back starts to re-promote a trump for South. East must ruff high but can no longer ruff a diamond in dummy without letting the ♠J score a trick. If East ducks a diamond to South then a second spade kills the ruff and there is no pressure.

How about double squeezes? Connoisseurs of the genre will note that with both club and diamond menaces offside no double squeeze works. Instead, at trick three, win in dummy and cross to the spade ace, ruff a club high and lead the third and fourth trumps.

♠ — ♥ A 10 8 ♦ K 9 5 ♣ 9 8	♠ — ♥ Q J 6 4 ♦ 10 2 ♣ Q J  N  W E  S  ♠ J ♥ K 9 7 ♦ Q J 6 4 ♣ —	♠ K 6 4 ♥ 3 ♦ A 8 7 3 ♣ —

When East leads the spade king South follows and the first critical moment is reached; dummy MUST discard the diamond nine and North pitches a heart. (The reason why you need to unblock the diamond nine is that North may be forced to discard a diamond later on, and then you will need to be able to cash the diamond king and exit with the diamond seven to endplay South – that requires the diamond nine to no longer be in dummy. If you do not unblock that card South MUST pitch the heart king on the next trump and declarer can not succeed no matter what he discards from dummy. If you pitch a diamond, North throws a heart and although that lets you establish a heart you cannot get both diamond tricks since the suit is blocked.)

After West's discard of the ♦9 declarer leads his fifth trump. South pitches a low heart, dummy throws a diamond, and North has to come down to six cards. If he pitches a club declarer crosses to ♦K ruffs out the club, cashes ♦A, and takes dummy's two winners. If he pitches a heart, declarer plays a heart up and arranges to duck the heart to South on either the first or second round. That forces South to play a diamond, letting West cash the two red-suit winners and leaving East with ♦A and his trump to reach it.

What if South pitches the ♥K? Dummy throws a club, and North cannot let go a heart or declarer establishes a long heart and cannot let go a diamond or South gets endplayed. Declarer takes the diamond king, plays ♥A and ruffs a heart and is down to ♦A87 with South having ♦Q J 6; on the second diamond South is endplayed.

Accordingly, North pitches a club. Declarer cashes the two top diamonds, ruffs a club and leads a heart, covering South's card, to endplay North in hearts!

World Transnational Open Teams

Teams wishing to play in the World Transnational Open Teams, if they do not qualify for the semi-finals of the Bermuda Bowl, Venice Cup or D'Orsi Seniors Bowl, are asked to inform Anna Gudge in the WBF Secretariat (in the basement area, room Brasilia 2) as soon as possible.

It would be helpful if you could PRINT the names of the players in your team and the team name, and hand the list to Anna.

ALL TEAMS – whether or not they are required to pay an entry fee – will need to have a receipt from the WBF in order to participate in the event.

Payments may be made and receipts collected from the WBF Office.

The office will be open for this purpose on:

- Saturday: 10.00 – 12.30 and 14.00 – 16.00
- Sunday: 10.00 – 12.30 and 14.00 – 16.00
- Monday: 10.00 – 12.30 and 14.00 – 18.00

BERMUDA BOWL Round 10

Italy

Preview of the final?

by Brent Manley

In round 10, Norway, defending champions in the Bermuda Bowl, faced the always-formidable Italian team in what could easily turn out to be the matchup for the final. After 16 boards, Norway had reason to hope that the set did not portend future results.

Norway drew first blood.

Espen Lindqvist's acceptance of the slam try may seem aggressive with the dull shape, but he was at the top of the range for a INT rebid. The Lindqvist INT opener is listed as (14) 15-17.

Glenn Grøtheim, Norway

Fulvio Fantoni started with a low heart, taken by North, who wasted no time playing on diamonds. A low diamond to the ace and a diamond back produced the king from West. The 3-3 split in spades meant declarer had an easy 12 tricks for plus 990.

At the other table, Lorenzo Lauria and Alfredo Versace had essentially the same auction, but Lauria declined the invitation to slam. That was 11 IMPs to Norway.

Italy evened the score on the next board.

(1) Diamonds and spades.

North-South could have managed plus 300 from this layout with two trumps, two diamonds and a heart, but Boye Brogeland started with the ♠A and a spade to declarer's king. Fantoni played a diamond, ducking when Brogeland put in the jack. Brogeland exited with his third spade, taken in dummy. Lindqvist ducked two rounds of hearts, so Fantoni simply cashed the ♦A and played a third round. The defenders got one spade, one heart and two diamonds for plus 100.

North led a spade to the 5, jack and ace, and Nunes was soon claiming plus 1370, not troubled at all by the 3-0 trump split because he needed only one heart ruff in hand with the spade suit producing four tricks.

At the other table, Glenn Grotheim and Tundal had a long relay auction that did not achieve the maximum result. Stopping at 5♦ cost them 13 IMPs.

On board 22, Italy lost 9 IMPs but they might have gained 7.

Had Claudio Nunes known his partner had the ♥K, he might have taken a different view with his shapely hand.

Brogeland started with the ♠A and could have held Fantoni to nine tricks with a diamond shift, but he continued with spades. A club return allowed Fantoni to ruff the clubs good and discard both diamonds from dummy for plus 200.

Versace could have scuttled the contract with a diamond lead, but that's strictly double dummy. On the normal heart lead, Tundal won in hand, cashed the ♣A and ruffed a club, then played the ♥A, pitching a diamond, and the ♥Q, overruffing with the ♠Q when Lorenzo Lauria ruffed with the jack. Now the ♣K was cashed, pitching a diamond, and a low club ruffed. When Tundal played a heart from dummy, Lauria ruffed with the ♠K. Tundal discarded a diamond. He still had to lose the ♦A and ♠A, but he had plus 620 and a useful swing. Norway had moved to within 3 IMPs at 24-21. The margin increased significantly on the next deal.

Nunes led a low club to the 10 and king, and Brogeland assessed the situation. Even if hearts produced four tricks, he was still one trick short, so he took the reasonable shot of playing a spade to dummy's king. It was trick 10 before Brogeland had the lead again. Fantoni won the ♠A and played a low diamond. Brogeland stuck in the 10, taken by Nunes with the jack. The ♦K was next, and a third diamond to Fantoni's ace picked up Brogeland's queen. Two more diamonds and two more spades left Brogeland with five tricks for minus 400. He had a reasonable hope that the result would be duplicated at the other table, but it did not work out that way.

On an identical auction, Grotheim (West) started with the ♦J – not a success. Tundal won the ace and returned the suit. Versace put up the queen, taken by Grotheim with the king. Versace gratefully won the third diamond trick with the 10 and was soon claiming plus 600 for a 14-IMP swing. Italy earned another big swing on this deal.

Lindqvist started with the ♦9 to the 4, queen and ace. Nunes ruffed a diamond at trick two and played a club to the ace. On the play of the ♦10 from West, Lindqvist ruffed in with the ♠Q and gave Brogeland a club ruff. When Brogeland exited with a spade, Nunes went up with the ace, dropping the king. He was able to ruff his last diamond with dummy's ♠J, return to hand with a heart ruff and claim plus 650.

Grotheim simply played a spade at that point, he would have survived, but he tried to cash the ♣A. Versace ruffed, cashed the ♦K and played the ♦Q. Grotheim desperately ruffed with the ♠10, but Lauria overruffed and gave his partner a second club ruff. One off meant 13 more IMPs to Italy, now leading 52-27.

It was 55-27 with one deal to play before Norway scored again.

A club went to Lindqvist's queen, and Fantoni won the diamond switch with the ace. Fantoni ruffed out Brogeland's ♣10 and played a spade, ruffing low as Lindqvist discarded a diamond. Fantoni then played the ♥A and a heart to the king. He was able to ruff another spade in hand, but that was his last trick, and he was two off for minus 200.

Against the part score, Lauria led the ♦7, ducked to Versace's king. Versace returned a trump and played a second round when he got in with the ♣Q, but Grotheim already had seven tricks and could separate the top two trumps with ruffs for plus 140 and 8 IMPs.

It was one of the few positive notes in an otherwise disappointing session for Norway, who fell to Italy 55-35.

After identical auctions at each table to three notrump, a club lead would have been fatal. But against Colin Simpson, Munawar Sawiruddin selected the heart nine. Declarer won with his jack and immediately ran the diamond queen. Denny Sacul took his king and shifted to the spade three (when the eight would have been a better choice). South now erred. He should have won the trick, cashed the heart king, overtaken the heart queen with dummy's ace, and played on diamonds. At the worst he would have lost two spades and two diamonds. But declarer played a low spade. West won with his queen and could have shifted effectively to a club. But he was fooled by his partner's low-spade shift, thinking this promised at least one honor in the suit. So West next led the spade king. South won with his ace, cashed three more spade tricks and claimed ten in all: four spades, four hearts, one diamond and one club.

In the Closed Room, John Holland (West) led the heart two. Eddy Manoppo (South) started in identical fashion, winning in his hand and running the diamond queen. But now came the key difference: Gunnar Hallberg (East), a Swede who has lived in England for many years, ducked. And now the contract had no chance.

South tried a low spade, but West won with his queen and shifted to the club two. East took dummy's queen with his king and returned the four, West carefully unblocking his jack.

Declarer ran dummy's spade ten, but West produced the king and played his last club to give the defenders five tricks: two spades and three clubs. Very nicely defended.

Plus 630 and plus 100 gave England 12 international match points.

VENICE CUP

Round 15

Germany

Italy

by Brian Senior

Going into their Round 15 clash in the Venice Cup qualifying round robin, Italy was lying sixth, Germany ninth, both in with a good chance of making it through to the knock-out stages but neither by any means secure. This then was a crucial match for both teams.

For Germany, Annaig Della Monta made a weak jump overcall of 3♥, which looks right for that West hand at this vulnerability, and Barbara Hackett raised to game over Gabriella Olivieri's 4♦ call. Gianna Arrigoni made a forcing pass and Olivieri showed her spade support. At the prevailing vulnerability, it seems normal for East/West to think that they have done their bidding and should pass now, as they did.

Della Monta led her singleton diamond and was given her ruff and now switched to a club. That wasn't good enough. Arrigoni could win the club and play a low spade. Della Monta won the king and played a second club but Arrigoni could win and draw trumps ending in dummy to run the diamonds; +420.

After ruffing at the second trick, Della Monta needs to play a heart, forcing dummy, and if declarer leads a club to the queen and a low spade towards the queen, go up with the king and lead another heart. Declarer cannot use the diamonds now and must fail.

Caterina Ferlazzo made a simple 2♥ overcall and Sabine Auken jumped to 5♦. Gabriella Manara was pushed into bidding at the five level and 5♥, of course, must fail on this lay-out. But Auken could not know that and, once Daniela von Arnim could not double 5♥, Auken felt that she had to take out some insurance by bidding 5♠, doubled by Ferlazzo.

There was potential for a substantial penalty if the best defence could be found but, once again, Ferlazzo led her singleton, collected the ruff, and switched to a club. Von Arnim won and played ace and another spade; down one for -100 and 11 IMPs to Italy.

It appears that the Italian North/South pair had a misunderstanding on this one. Clearly, Olivieri meant 3♥ to be natural, similar to a 3♥ opening, while Arrigoni took it as heart shortage with a diamond fit. When Arrigoni rebid 4♦, Olivieri, quite logically, expected a strong hand with long diamonds so, with three-card support and a decent hand in context, cuebid her club control. Hackett/Della Monta took full advantage of their opponents' error; Hackett doubling 5♣ and that convinced Della Monta that she could afford to double 5♦.

Della Monta led the ace of clubs, ruffed. Arrigoni led the king of hearts to Hackett's ace and Hackett found the best return of a trump. Arrigoni won the ace, ruffed a club, threw her last club on the ♥Q and played a spade, unblocking the jack under Hackett's ace. Hackett led a club, forcing declarer to ruff, and Arrigoni played the ♦Q to the king, ruffed the club return and cashed the ♦J to draw the last trump. Hackett threw a spade on this trick so when Arrigoni now played king and another spade could win and lead a club; down three for -800.

Von Arnim opened 1♠ in her partnership's canapé style and Auken responded 2♦, invitational plus in a major. With no interest facing hearts, von Arnim simply bid 2♥ and Auken had an easy pass. After a heart lead to the ace and diamond switch, von Arnim rose with the ace, crossed to dummy with a club ruff and pulled the outstanding trumps, coming to ten tricks for +170 and 14 IMPs to Germany.

Arrigoni overcalled 2♦ – it isn't much of a hand with 11 HCP and a 3-2-5-3 shape, but the suit is good and many players would agree with her decision. Della Monta showed a constructive spade raise and Olivieri took an advance save in 5♦. Though she had almost nothing, she did have five-card diamond support and probably thought that it would be difficult for her opponents to double with their short diamond holdings. She was mistaken, as Hackett judged well to double despite her singleton diamond, ending the auction.

Della Monta led the two of spades. Hackett won the ace and switched to the king of hearts then the ♣2. Della Monta won the ace and switched back to hearts, playing ace and another. Though declarer could ruff that, there was still a diamond and a club to be lost; down for a second -800 in three boards.

Von Arnim did not overcall. Ferlazzo showed an at least invitational hand with three-card spade support and Manara jumped to game.

Four Spades can be beaten but that requires that the defence lead clubs early, so it is also easy to let it through. However, von Arnim got the defence right, starting with the six of clubs, Polish style. Manara won the ace of clubs and ran the ten of spades to the jack. Von Arnim continued with a second club to Manara's king. She cashed the ace of spades then played three rounds of hearts, hoping to get her diamond away. No luck – von Arnim ruffed the third heart, cashed the ace of diamonds and led a club to Auken; down one for -100 and 14 IMPs to Germany.

Opening style played a part in this one. Manara opened with a multi 2♦ and showed a minimum with hearts in response to the 2NT asking bid. Ferlazzo had an automatic 4♥ bid now. Auken led the queen of clubs. Ferlazzo won, drew trumps and gave up a club, establishing two discards for the spade and diamond losers; 12 tricks for +680.

Hackett opened with a natural weak two bid then showed a maximum with a good suit. Della Monta made the mildly aggressive decision to ask for key cards then, on finding two but no trump queen, to bid the small slam. The contract would have been far better had the maximum contained a minor-suit queen, but it was still playable. You will read elsewhere about the play options on a neutral lead, but Hackett's job was made easier by Arrigoni's choice of the jack of diamonds. Hackett had an easy time coming to 12 tricks for +1430 and 13 IMPs to Germany.

Things were looking bleak for Italy but this deal gave them a little respite from the battering.

Both Wests overcalled 1♥ and I wonder how many did so across the three championships and how many preferred to pass. It looks like the sort of hand where I might bid one day and pass the next, depending on my mood. Both Easts responded 1♠, but that was where things changed.

Ferlazzo was facing a non-forcing 1♠ bid so, while not thrilled with spades, passed to avoid giving partner the idea that she had a better hand. One Spade made exactly for +80.

Hackett's 1♠ response was forcing so Della Monta naturally showed her second suit. Now I think Hackett did too much on what looked to be a misfit. Her sequence of 3♣ followed by 3♠ effectively forced to game and Della Monta clearly took it that way as she raised 3♠ to 4♠. Now Olivieri doubled on her undisclosed eight-count and heart stack.

Arrigoni led a club. That gave Hackett a moment's hope, as she could win the queen and get rid of a diamond loser on the ace of hearts before playing the ♠J. But that hope was swiftly dashed as Arrigoni gave her partner a club ruff, got back in with the ace of diamonds and gave a second ruff. There was still a second trump to be lost so the contract was down two for -300 and 9 IMPs to Italy.

If Board 15 was good news for Italy, the final deal featured a great team effort from the Germans. First, Della Monta opened a natural weak 2♠ and Hackett jumped to game over Olivieri's overcall, giving Arrigoni a tough problem against vulnerable opponents who must be assumed to expect to not go many down. Arrigoni solved this by bidding her strong six-card suit.

Della Monta led the king of spades. Hackett knew what to do so made certain by overtaking with the ace and cashing the ace of hearts before reverting to spades. Arrigoni ruffed and cashed the top clubs but found that there was a loser there; down one for -50.

At the other table, Ferlazzo opened with a multi and now Manara could not pre-empt in the same way on the East hand. Auken overcalled 3♦ and Manara passed. That gave von Arnim the opportunity to make the truly inspired bid of 3♥, which suited Auken very nicely as she raised to game. Von Arnim must have awaited the appearance of dummy with some trepidation – might the raise be on only honour-to-three hearts? No, that was a very nice dummy, thank you very much partner.

Ferlazzo led the king then queen of spades, ruffed, and von Arnim led a heart to the ten and jack. Manara ducked and von Arnim continued with a low heart off the dummy. Manara took her ace this time and must have been surprised to see partner follow with the queen. No matter, it was only the overtrick. Von Arnim had 11 tricks now for +450 and 11 IMPs to Germany. They won the match by 57-21 IMPs, 23-7 VPs. That moved Germany up to seventh and dropped Italy to eighth with six rounds of qualifying to go.

The Sands of Time

by Mark Horton

The Sands of Time is a 1988 action novel by Sidney Sheldon. A best-seller, it follows the adventures of four women who are forced to leave their Spanish convent for the outside world of threat, violence and passions. The eight players in this important match between two of the teams trying to stay within reach of a place in the quarter-finals found themselves embroiled in a set of deals that featured some of the most testing hands of the tournament.

Holding four trumps, East was in no hurry to lead her singleton and she started out with the jack of clubs. Declarer won with the ace and played a spade to the queen, a diamond to the ten, and the king of spades. East does best to duck this, intending to win the next spade and play two rounds of diamonds, after which declarer cannot arrive at more than nine tricks. However, East took the ace of spades, West discarding the six of hearts and exited with the jack of hearts. Declarer won with dummy's ace and played the king of diamonds to East's ace. Now East fatally exited with the eight of clubs, allowing declarer to score a trick with the ten (a diamond would keep the defenders ahead of the game). The hand was over now, declarer being able to cross to dummy to pick up East's trumps, +620.

If we go back to the point where East erroneously took the ace of spades declarer can make the contract by un-blocking the nine of spades from dummy! Now declarer wins the heart exit and plays the king of diamonds. She wins the diamond exit and plays a heart. It does not help East to ruff, so say she will discard a diamond. Declarer wins and now runs the ten of clubs. East wins, but that is the last trick for the defence.

The unblock is needed because otherwise in the four-card ending envisaged above East can exit with the four of spades locking declarer in dummy. (And you thought it was only the players who had problems analysing the hands!)

This time East led the queen of clubs and declarer won, cashed another club and ruffed a club. She played the queen of spades and when that held she played the jack of diamonds to the queen and ace. She won the heart switch in dummy and played a diamond to the nine. Now the winning line is to ruff the last club with the nine of spades, cash the master diamond and then play the jack of spades. However, declarer ruffed the club with the jack of spades and the 4-1 trump break spelled defeat. When she played the nine of spades East took the ten and played a diamond. Declarer could win and but East had to take two more tricks, +100 and 12 IMPs.

Once again East led the two of clubs. Declarer put up dummy’s king, played a club to the ace and ruffed a club. She cashed the ace of diamonds and then played three rounds of hearts, ruffed and overruffed. When East switched to a spade declarer did not guess to put up the king so the defenders played three rounds, West ruffing and exiting with a heart forcing declarer to ruff and present West with a trump trick, -50 and 10 IMPs for Sweden.

Cecilia Rimstedt, Sweden

East led the three of hearts and declarer won in hand and cashed her other top heart on which West discarded a seemingly innocuous nine of clubs. Declarer now tried a low club and when East went in with the jack the defence was in a precarious position. East exited with her spade and declarer won with the queen. She can hardly be blamed for ignoring the possibility that she was being made a present of the contract so she continued with the queen of clubs and a relieved West won with the king and switched to a diamond leaving declarer with only eight tricks, -50.

Play started in an identical fashion, but this time West discarded the six of spades on the second round of hearts. When declarer played a club East went in with the jack and now had to find a switch to a spade or a low diamond. When she played a second club declarer won in hand with the queen, cashed the ace and the thirteenth club.

With five tricks in the bag declarer needs four more. She exited with the three of diamonds and West won with the king and returned the suit, East winning with the ten. This was the position:

	♠ K 9 4

When East exited with the seven of diamonds declarer has an elegant way to get home. She must win with the ace of diamonds (!) and play the king of spades. West has to duck and now declarer can exit with a diamond forcing East to give the last two tricks to dummy. The winning defence is for East to exit with a spectacular queen of diamonds or a more mundane spade, subsequently unblocking the queen of diamonds under the ace.

Declarer can prevent this by exiting with the nine of diamonds rather than the three. Then she covers West's diamond return with the jack and East cannot avoid the end-play after West has been forced to duck the king of spades.

However, declarer won the diamond exit with the jack, cashed the ace and had to lose two spade tricks for a flat board.

(a) Four-plus hearts

In the Closed Room, where Wang Weimin (West) failed to double two hearts, he led the diamond ace, then shifted to a club. Declarer Pablo Ravenna won with dummy's ace, cashed the club king for a diamond discard, played a trump to the king and ace, and continued with a low heart. West won cheaply and returned a club, South ruffing. Now came a spade to the king. Zhuang Zejun (East) took his ace and led a club, ruffed low. This permitted West to overruff, draw trumps and play a diamond, East claiming the last three tricks with the king-queen of diamonds and a club. That was down four, 200 to China.

Against two hearts redoubled, Pablo Lambardi (West) led the spade five, East winning with his ace. Now shifted to the diamond king, blocking the suit. East continued with a low diamond to his partner's ace, and West switched to a club.

Zhao Jie (South) took dummy's top clubs, discarding his last diamond, ruffed a club in his hand, played a spade to dummy's nine, and ruffed a club low, which West overruffed. The spade queen was taken by dummy's king to give this position:

Championship Diary

BBO is packing them in. With the most popular time for viewing being around 19.30 GMT a new record of 20,286 was established during the week. One pair stands head and shoulders above the rest so far as audience figures are concerned. When Round 15 started on Thursday more than 3800 spectators were waiting for the bidding to start, more than all the other rooms combined, at the table occupied by Jeff Meckstroth & Eric Rodwell.

A Championship shirt was found in the Open Room. If you can identify the size and colour please claim it from the Daily Bulletin office.

We are informed that Thursday's IPBA outing to the beach was greatly enjoyed by those who were able to attend and a picture of the group is reproduced here.

For those of us who had to remain at our posts in order to bring you Friday's Bulletin we can only say that it was a pity that the tremendous thunderstorms of yesterday did not arrive one day earlier.

One of the commentators on BBO remarked that North/South might be suffering from Lebensohl Confusion. Does anyone know the antidote?
